

~~ABSTRACT~~

Sub B1 7 A gateway by which a network for performing communication periodically and a network for performing communication to an event driven can be effectively connected and a distributed system are provided.

5 The gateway connecting different networks receives a periodical message, and when a change of the received message is detected sends it as an event message, and delivers the message periodically.